the source of the new capital, including the reinvestment of earnings of a foreign organization. The term is to include the expansion of existing facilities of a foreign organization as well as the establishment of a new foreign organization.

2. In listing the proposed new foreign investment projects, they are to be grouped by geographic area and by type of business. The latter grouping (type of business) shall distinguish between major activities, such as distributing organizations, manufacturing, mining, financing, etc.

D. PART B.-SHIPMENTS, EMPLOYMENT AND WELFARE EXPENDITURES OF ALLIED FOREIGN ORGANIZATIONS

1. Item 3.-Value of shipments (in United States dollars) grouped by country and by type of business of the foreign organization.

a. Round value of shipments to the nearest $1,000.

b. Estimated approximate percent of total capacity represented by total sales should be shown to the nearest 5 percent. Capacity should be based on what the reporting organization ordinarily regards as the maximum production that could have been attained in 1950 with the existing facilities.

2. Item 4. -Foreign employment grouped by country and by type of business.

a. Enter the figures available at the reporter's home office. If accurate book figures are not available, enter the best estimate available at the reporter's office. If estimates are entered, so indicate on the form.

3. Item 5a. -Describe briefly the training or instruction, other than "on the job" instruction, which foreign workers obtain through the foreign organization.

Include under this item training schools or classes operated by the foreign company for the benefit of the employees, or any plan which is designed to fit employees for executive or technical jobs at the expense of the foreign organization.

4. Item 5b. -Include in this table any welfare activities which have cost the foreign organization $50,000 or more in 1950.

the impact of the new capital, including the replacement of existing or a foreign corporation. The term is to include the construction of various facilities of a foreign corporation as well as the establishment of a new foreign corporation.

3. In listing the proposed new foreign investment projects, they are to be grouped by geographic area and by type of business. The latter grouping type of business shall distinguish between major activities, such as developing, manufacturing, trading, etc.

D. PLAN II—EFFECTS, EMPLOYMENT AND FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS OF ACTIVE FOREIGN INVESTMENTS

1. Item 3—Value of deposits in United States dollars created by country and type of business of the foreign corporation.

2. Record value of deposits to the United States.

3. Estimated approximate percent of total capacity represented by total debt should be based on the amount of deposits created by the foreign corporation. Capacity should be based on what the reporting corporation actually reports as the maximum production that could have been obtained in 1960 with the existing facilities.

4. Item 4—Foreign employment created by country and by type of business.

5. Item 5—The figures available at the reporting house shall be the best estimate available at the reporting office. If estimates are entered as available on the form.

6. Item 6—Describe briefly the location of the investment, whether land, "on the job" investment, which forces workers to leave the United States. Include under each item the number of workers or plant which is located in the country for the investment or whether the investment is located in the United States.

7. Item 7—Include in this table any other activities which are conducted in the foreign corporation. Record the foreign corporation $50,000 or more in 1960.
