November 13, 1933.

Dear Boris,

Due to pressure of work at the present time, I have been unable to call at your studio to discuss again the possibility of an exhibition.

We are opening an exhibition of water colors by Cezanne next Friday, the seventeenth, and as soon as all the details of arrangements are concluded, I will have more spare time.

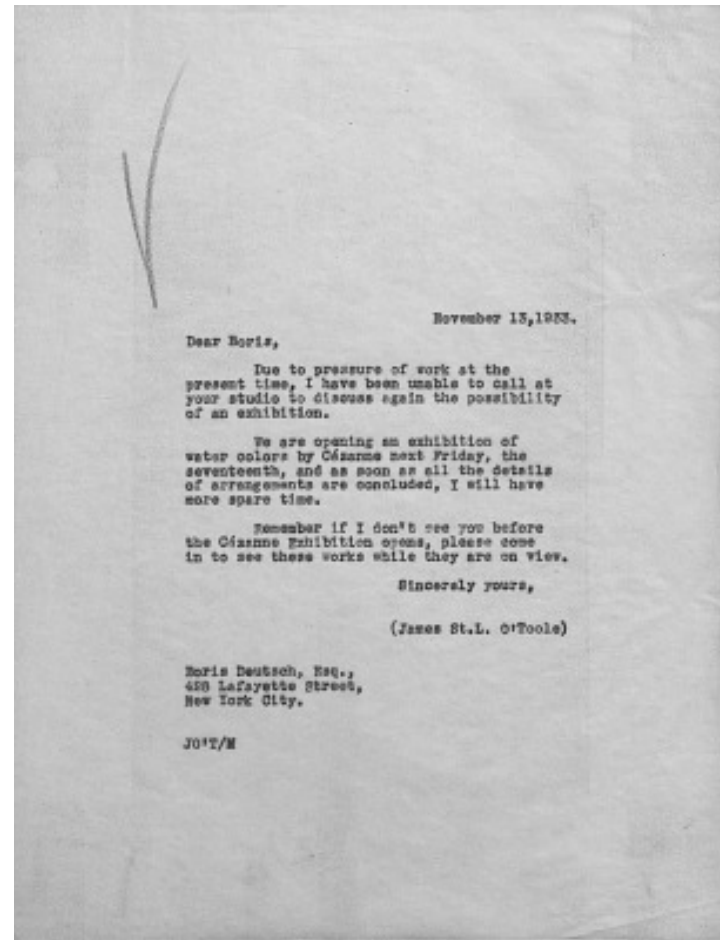

Remember if I don't see you before the Cezanne exhibition opens, please come in to see these works while they are on view.

Sincerely yours,

(James St.L. O'Toole)

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.
