

Smithsonian Institution Anacostia Community Museum Archives

Oration by Frederick Douglass Delivered on the Occasion of the Unveiling of the Freedmen's Monument, April 14, 1876

Extracted on Jul-15-2025 09:45:43

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Anacostia Community Museum Archives as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Anacostia Community Museum Archives website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Anacostia Community Museum Archives or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Anacostia Community Museum Archives. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

10

the colored race. Looking back to his times and to the condition of his country, we are compelled to admit that this unfriendly feeling on his part may be safely set down as one element of his wonderful success in organizing the loval American people for the tremendous conflict before them, and bringing them safely through that conflict. His great mission was to accomplish two things: first, to save his country from dismemberment and ruin ; and second, to free his country from the great crime of slavery. To do one or the other, or both, he must have the earnest sympathy and the powerful co-operation of his loyal fellowcountrymen. Without this primary and essential condition to success his efforts must have been vain and utterly fruitless. Had he put the abolition of slavery before the salvation of the Union, he would have inevitably driven from him a powerful class of the American people and rendered resistance to rebellion impossible. Viewed from the genuine abolition ground, Mr. Lincoln seemed tardy, cold, dull, and indifferent; but measuring him by the sentiment of his country, a sentiment he was bound as a statesman to consult, he was swift, zealous, radical, and determined.

Though Mr. Lincoln shared the prejudices of his white fellow-countrymen against the negro, it is hardly necessary to say that in his heart of hearts he loathed and hated slavery * The man who could say, "Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war shall soon pass away, yet if God wills it continue till all the wealth piled by two hundred years of bondage shall have been wasted, and each drop of blood drawn by the lash shall have been paid for by one drawn by the sword. the

[[line across page]]

[[footnote]] "I am naturally anti-slavery. If slavery is not wrong, nothing is wrong. I cannot remember when I did not so think and feel " —Letter of Mr. Lincoln to Mr. Hughes, of Kentucky, April 4, 1864. [[end page]] judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether" gives all needed proof of his feeling on the subject of slavery. He was willing, while the South was loyal, that it should have its pound of flesh, because he thought that it was so nominated in the bond; but farther than this no earthly power could make him go.

[[start page]]

11

Fellow-citizens, whatever else in this world may be partial, unjust, and uncertain, time, time! is impartial, just, and certain in its action. In the realm of mind, as well as in the realm of matter, it is a great worker, and often works wonders. The honest and comprehensive statesman, clearly discerning the needs of his country, and earnestly endeavoring to do his whole duty, though covered and blistered with reproaches, may safely leave his course to the silent judgment of time. Few great public men have ever been the victims of fiercer denunciation than Abraham Lincoln was during his administration. He was often wounded in the house of his friends. Reproaches came thick and fast upon him from within and form without, and from opposite guarters. He was assailed by Abolitionists; he was assailed by slaveholders; he was assailed by the men who were for peace at any price; he was assailed by those who were for a more vigorous prosecution of the war; he was assailed for not making the war an abolition war; and he was most bitterly assailed for making the war an abolition war.

the solared rare. Leaking back to his times and to the condition of his country, we are compelled to admit that this unitsmily fielding on his part way be addly not down subject of the sensity, so are completed to about their the actional fulling on the probability of dwar hour about of the resultered sensors in capaciting the photon of the sensitivity of the sensitivity of the temperature sensitivity from the activity of the sensitivity of the sensitivity from the activity of the temperature of the proceeding of the temperature of the sensitivity of the sensity of the sensitivity of the sensitivity of the sensit

11 am naturally anti-skeney. If densey is not wrong, torbing is wrong. I cannot economic when I did not an faith and lev! "—Letter of Rec Dissols in Br. Moder, of Kurlindy, April 5, 1993.

13

-11 plaquest of the Lord new two and righteen skipedirs, flue all models of et the first gene show detection of the start wave string, which the bank has based but the start wave provide the bank has based but the start wave string and models and the start wave string and models and the start wave string and models and the start λ is a gene wave, and each start λ is a gene wave, and each string and the start λ is a gene wave, and each start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and by the interval of the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the grave barrier of the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the start λ is a gene wave and the gene where the gene wave was mended by those who were for percent and prior to be was availed by the men who were for percent at any prior he was availed by these who were for a more signment process. In two annaled by these who were for a more signman prese variant of the wars, for wars annual for not studying the war an abelian wars, but he was most bitterly annaled for mail, the war as sholding wars. But your both the studying the study is not adding the studying and an annaly for the two-studying singularity of the work before kin, considering the scenarios means to each, and surveying the end from the beginning, indicite window, has address well any new into the windo before fitted for his mission they Abraham Lincoln. His MrB, his training, and his natural endowments, both resents and physical, were strongly in his first. Here, and wared among the lowly, a stranger to workh and heney, compelled to But now behold the change: the judgment of the present hour is, that taking him for all in all, measuring the tremendous magnitude of the work before him, considering the necessary means to ends, and surveying the end from the beginning, infinite wisdom has seldom sent any man into the world better fitted for his mission than Abraham Lincoln. His birth, his training, and his natural endowments, both mental and physical, were strongly in his favor. Born and reared among the lowly, a stranger to wealth and luxury, compelled to

> Oration by Frederick Douglass Delivered on the Occasion of the Unveiling of the Freedmen's Monument, April 14, 1876 Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers Extracted Jul-15-2025 09:45:43

Smithsonian Institution

Anacostia Community Museum Archives

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities.Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us! The Transcription Center: https://transcription.si.edu On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian On Twitter: @smithsonian