Dear Miss Fletcher:-

I heard yesterday that you had been in New York and <sup>thinking</sup> that you didn't get my letter yet. I write again <sup>and I am</sup> sorry that I had to send you sad news. I had five children to go to it and just as they were ready two of them backed out at least their parents backed out. I am very sorry for I wanted five to go anyway. There are three boys left and they are going. If I had more time than I did I could have gotten eight children. Will you please inform
