Smithsonian Institution
National Anthropological Archives

Journal of John Colton Sumner - NAA MS 4419

Extracted on Mar-29-2024 06:45:42

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

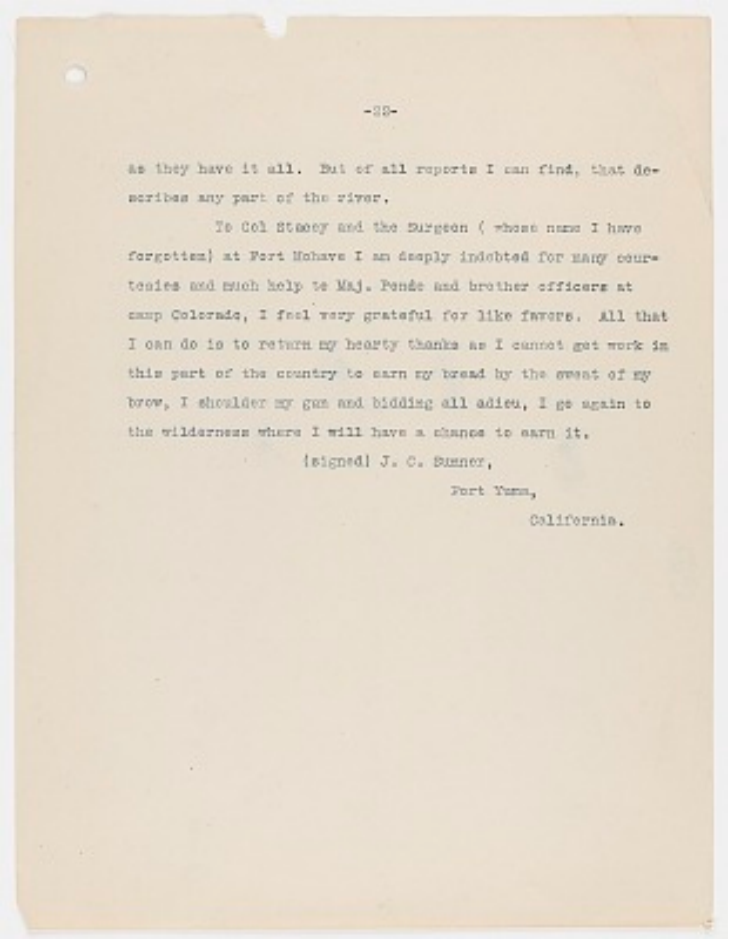

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the National Anthropological Archives as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the National Anthropological Archives website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact National Anthropological Archives or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the National Anthropological Archives. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

as they have it all. But of all reports I can find, that describes any part of the river.

To Col Stacey and the Surgeon (whose name I have forgotten) at Fort Mohave I am deeply indebted for many courtesies and much help to Maj. Ponde and brother officers at camp Colorado, I feel very grateful for like favors. All that I can do is to return my hearty thanks as I cannot get work in this part of the country to earn my bread by the sweat of my brow, I shoulder my gun and bidding all adieu, I go again to the wilderness where I will have a chance to earn it.

(signed) J. C. Sumner,
Fort Yuma,
California.

-22-

as they have it all. But of all reports I can find, that describes any part of the river.

To Col Stacey and the Surgeon (whose name I have forgotten) at Fort Mohave I am deeply indebted for many courtesies and much help to Maj. Ponde and brother officers at camp Colorado, I feel very grateful for like favors. All that I can do is to return my hearty thanks as I cannot get work in this part of the country to earn my bread by the sweat of my brow, I shoulder my gun and bidding all adieu, I go again to the wilderness where I will have a chance to earn it.

(signed) J. C. Sumner,

Fort Yuma,

California.

Journal of John Colton Sumner - NAA MS 4419
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Mar-29-2024 06:45:42

Smithsonian Institution
National Anthropological Archives

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities.Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!
The Transcription Center: https://transcription.si.edu
On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter
On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian
Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu
On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian
On Twitter: @smithsonian