

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney's Juilly Hospital Journals, 1914

Extracted on Apr-23-2024 11:50:50

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives of American Art as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives of American Art website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives of American Art or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Archives of American Art. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

wounded out through Calais, further south in the English zone the English & French troops go out through Abbeville to Dieppe, many English go through Boulogne also. Abbeville is about the line between the French & English so that a great many wounded land there. At that time there were about 850 wounded, a big military hospital of 300 beds and about ten smaller hospitals. They are all pretty primitive and have not enough trained nurses. The only available building to be turned into a hospital is the theatre which is not entirely completed and adapts itself badly for the purposes. It was eleven thirty when we got away, stopped and lunched at Poix in the patisserie shop and reached Paris about 5.30 having a pneu and a breakdown (3/4 hr) at Beauvais. We passed a great many convoys on the road. About twenty of the old Parisian busses painted gray with soldiers, great loads of provisions in vans and a long stream of little postal service cars which dash right to the front with mail.

wounded out through Calais, further south in the English zone the English troops go out through Abbeville to Dieppe, many English go through Boulogne also. Abbeville is about the line between the French & English so that a great many wounded land there. At that time there were about 850 wounded, a big military hospital of 300 beds and about ten smaller hospitals. They are all pretty primitive and have not enough trained nurses. The only available building to be turned into a hospital is the theatre which is not entirely completed and adapts itself badly for the purposes. It was eleven thirty when we got away, stopped and lunched at Poix in the patisserie shop and reached Paris about 5.30 having a pneu and a breakdown (3/4 hr) at Beauvais. We passed a great many convoys on the road. About twenty of the old Parisian busses painted gray with soldiers, great loads of provisions in vans and a long stream of little postal service cars which dash right to the front with mail.

Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney's Juilly Hospital Journals, 1914
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Apr-23-2024 11:50:50

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian