EXCITING YEAR-END PROGRAMS

Artists Talk On Art, the longest-running, open panel series in the New York art community, presents two exciting programs to end the 1986 year.

On Friday evening, December 5, Artists Talk On Art will present "An Evening with well-known artists, Leon Golub and Nancy Spero. This is a rare opportunity to meet both Leon and Nancy and to take part in a dialog with them about the roles artists play in this society in regard to gender, sex, politics and art.

Leon Golub's art deals with such themes as mercenaries, political interrogations and political control and domination. His next exhibition will be at the Museum of Art in Lucern Switzerland this winter. Nancy Spero's art currently deals with women taking charge of their own bodies. An exhibition of her work can be seen at the Josh Baer Gallery March 6-28, 1987.

On Friday evening, December 12, we will present "Artsounds," an evening with six of New York's "audio artists." Jeff Gordon, Les Levine, Nohra Haime, Thomas Lanigan-Schmidt, Janet Stayton and Philemona Williamson will play their art and discuss it with the audience.

Artists Talk On Art is held at 22 Wooster Street, New York City. Doors open at 7:30 PM and programs begin at 8:00 PM. There is free coffee and tea. Admission is $2.00 at the door. For additional information, please call 212-505-2722.
