WEBVTT

00:15:15.000 --> 00:15:34.000

Jack Gannon/Shirley Schultz (interpreter): Sandy Ewan? Ewan. His father and Doc who we talked about yesterday and another deaf man, photographer went up to the Washington monument in 1930s.

00:15:34.000 --> 00:15:48.000

On the outside, not on the inside. At that time they were cleaning it. His father was, grandfather was foreman, took them up scaffold to the top.

00:15:48.000 --> 00:15:55.000

Jo Radner: And if you want even more of that and a picture, sorry.

Shirley Schultz: John [[BACKGROUND TALKING INAUDIBLE]]

00:15:55.000 --> 00:16:10.000

Jo Radner: Excuses us. If you would like to know even more about that and see a picture of that event, you can go over to our craft sales tent and we may have a few copies of Jack's book left. You'll find the picture, I don't remember the page.

00:16:10.000 --> 00:16:25.000

Okay, I'd like to make a couple of announcements. For our deaf visitors, we'd love to have you share your stories with us. If you could go over to our other tent we have a video tape crew from Gallaudet College.

00:16:25.000 --> 00:16:38.000

They're working to make a collection of stories by deaf people; life stories, jokes, anecdotes for the Gallaudet archives and would be glad to interview you over there at any time.

00:16:38.000 --> 00:16:53.000

Also, we will be having a volunteer interpreter for the deaf-blind at this festival, during the next three days if you have any friends who would like to take advantage of that service.

00:16:53.000 --> 00:17:07.000

So please if you have a deaf-blind friend, tell me, tell one of our staff and well get that interpreter here for them. Okay thank you all very much.

00:17:07.000 --> 00:17:21.430

Jo Radner: Introduce your sign language teacher today, her name is Elaine Aiello and she's a professional teacher of sign language in the Washington area. She's interpreting for me now and she's also reading my lips
