IT GETS BIGGER AS IT GETS SMALLER.

[[image - black & white photograph of a hand holding the top half of a world ball, revealing three additional world balls inside]]

The number of worlds we need to know about keeps increasing even as time and distance diminish. Millions of people depend on Walter Cronkite and the CBS Evening News to make sense of it all. For good reason. For dozens of good reasons. The whole team of correspondents we call Worldwatchers. Men like Charles Collingwood in London. Peter Kalischer in Paris. Eric Sevareid in Washington. Men like Dan Rather, a President watcher. Marvin Kalb, a diplomat watcher. Daniel Schorr, a city watcher. They know what to look for. And how to impart it with clarity and meaning. Keep your eye on CBS News. Don't let the world get away from you.

National Museum of African American History and Culture

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.
