

Smithsonian Institution

National Museum of African American History and Culture

Delegate Magazine 1978

Extracted on Apr-17-2024 04:29:23

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the National Museum of African American History and Culture as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the National Museum of African American History and Culture website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact National Museum of African American History and Culture or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the National Museum of African American History and Culture. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

[[image 1]]

[[image 2]]

(1)
Norma Quarles, reporter for WMAQ-TV, the NBC owned station in Chicago, has been affiliated with the network's owned stations in Washington, Cleveland and New York City. She is a graduate of Hunter College and City College of New York. She completed the network's training program in 1967 and has served as news anchorwoman, Today Show local reporter, and investigative reporter. She resides in Chicago with her two children.

(2)
Bonnie Bell Boswell, administrator of Editorial Services, WNBC-TV, New York, is a graduate of MIT and Radcliffe College. She joined WNBC-TV in 1976, after working with the Port Authority of New York/New Jersey and serving as a research assistant at Harvard Law School. Ms. Boswell researches, writes and delivers the editorials for the flagship NBC station. She resides in Manhattan.

(3)
Carol Jenkins learned the value of a broad knowledge during her experience as a network correspondent for ABC News, as a reporter and anchorperson for WOR-TV, and since February, 1973, with WNBC-TV, where she has been a general assignment reporter, and has anchored the 1 a.m. news. For several months after "NewsCenter 4" inaugurated the two-hour, magazine-news format, Carol presented a feature, "How to Beat the System," which provided advice on how to obtain good buys in the essentials of city living. She resides in Manhattan.

(4)
Melba Tolliver, who has been a prominent television reporter on the New York metropolitan scene for the last eight years is a featured reporter, presented on "NewsCenter 4's" two-hour evening news program, NBC-TV, New York. Ms. Tolliver made a dramatic move into broadcasting, and it was largely by a twist of fate. She had been a nurse, then moved to WABC-TV as a secretary. It was during an AFTRA strike in 1967, at which time she was pressed into service as a newscaster. When the strike ended, she was officially assigned as a news reporter, following which she decided to take a course in journalism. She resides in Manhattan.

(5)
Carole Simpson, NBC News network correspondent, is based in Washington, D.C. She can usually be found on Capitol Hill covering stories concerning health care, the environment, education, welfare, women's rights, transportation, housing, and child care. She was a general assignment reporter and weekend anchor for WMAQ-TV, the NBC owned station in Chicago for four years. A native Chicagoan, she has been a reporter for radio stations WCFL, and WBBM, before joining NBC in 1970.

She was named to the network news position in 1974. She resides in

(1)
Norma Quarles, reporter for WMAQ-TV, the NBC owned station in Chicago, has been affiliated with the network's owned stations in Washington, Cleveland and New York City. She is a graduate of Hunter College and City College of New York. She completed the network's training program in 1967 and has served as news anchorwoman, Today Show local reporter, and investigative reporter. She resides in Chicago with her two children.

(2)
Bonnie Bell Boswell, administrator of Editorial Services, WNBC-TV, New York, is a graduate of MIT and Radcliffe College. She joined WNBC-TV in 1976, after working with the Port Authority of New York/New Jersey and serving as a research assistant at Harvard Law School. Ms. Boswell researches, writes and delivers the editorials for the flagship NBC station. She resides in Manhattan.

(3)
Carol Jenkins learned the value of a broad knowledge during her experience as a network correspondent for ABC News, as a reporter and anchorperson for WOR-TV, and since February, 1973, with WNBC-TV, where she has been a general assignment reporter, and has anchored the 1 a.m. news. For several months after "NewsCenter 4" inaugurated the two-hour, magazine-news format, Carol presented a feature, "How to Beat the System," which provided advice on how to obtain good buys in the essentials of city living. She resides in Manhattan.

(4)
Melba Tolliver, who has been a prominent television reporter on the New York metropolitan scene for the last eight years is a featured reporter, presented on "NewsCenter 4's" two-hour evening news program, NBC-TV, New York. Ms. Tolliver made a dramatic move into broadcasting, and it was largely by a twist of fate. She had been a nurse, then moved to WABC-TV as a secretary. It was during an AFTRA strike in 1967, at which time she was pressed into service as a newscaster. When the strike ended, she was officially assigned as a news reporter, following which she decided to take a course in journalism. She resides in Manhattan.

NBC-TV, New York, Ill. Tolliver made a dramatic move into broadcasting, and it was largely by a twist of fate. She had been a nurse, then moved to WABC-TV as a secretary. It was during an AFTRA strike in 1967, at which time she was pressed into service as a newscaster. When the strike ended, she was officially assigned as a news reporter, following which she decided to take a course in journalism. She resides in Manhattan.

(5)
Carole Simpson, NBC News network correspondent, is based in Washington, D.C. She can usually be found on Capitol Hill covering stories concerning health care, the environment, education, welfare, women's rights, transportation, housing, and child care. She was a general assignment reporter and weekend anchor for WMAQ-TV, the NBC owned station in Chicago for four years. A native Chicagoan, she has been a reporter for radio stations WCFL, and WBBM, before joining NBC in 1970.

She was named to the network news position in 1974. She resides in Chevy Chase, Maryland with her husband, James Marshall, and their daughter.

(6)
Wanda L. Williams, producer of WNBC-TV's weekly program "Positively Black" is a recipient of the BETHERNE AWARD by the National Council of Negro Women, in recognition of her achievement in the television industry.

Ms. Williams is a graduate of Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, where she majored in radio and television. Upon finishing college, she performed in some filmed skits for Second City, a Chicago improvisational group. She came to New York in 1968. Her first television assignment was with William Gray's production staff on "A Choice of Deaths," an hour-long special presented by WNBC-TV on March 19, 1970. Ms. Williams also wrote and served as associate producer for "New York Illustrated," and "Rise and Golden Hour." She resides in Manhattan.

Chevy Chase, Maryland with her husband, James Marshall, and their daughter.

(6)

Verda L. Williams, producer of WNBC-TV's weekly program "Positively Black" is a recipient of the BETHUNE AWARD by the National Council of Negro Women, in recognition of her achievement in the television industry.

Ms. Williams is a graduate of Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, where she majored in radio and television. Upon finishing college, she performed in some filmed skits for Second City, a Chicago improvisational group. She came to New York in 1968. Her first television assignment was with William Greaves' production staff on "A Choice of Destinies," an hour-long special, presented by WNBC-TV on March 19, 1970. Ms. Williams also wrote and served as associate producer for "New York Illustrated," and "Ripe and Golden Years." She resides in Manhattan.

118

Delegate Magazine 1978
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Apr-17-2024 04:29:23

Smithsonian Institution

National Museum of African American History and Culture

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian