

Smithsonian Institution

Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives

John and Charles Wise Ballooning Collection - Scrapbook 1

Extracted on Mar-29-2024 12:36:47

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

[[newspaper clipping]]

Saturday, " 7.....29 40 37
Sunday, " 8.....28 38 36

Personal.

The York County Teacher's Institute will be held next week. Among the day instructors are Prof. S.S. Haldeman, of Chickies, and Prof. J.V. Montgomery, of the Millersville State Normal School. The evening lecturers will be Rev. Dr. Warren, Philadelphia, on "Forces in a Sunbeam;" Wallace Bruce, Esq, New York, "Landmarks of Scott;" Tod Ford, Esq, Ohio, "Go West, young man;" Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, "Madame de Steai;" Daniel Dougherty, Eqs, "The Stage."

Schoolhouse Robbed

The teacher of Harmony Hall school, of Pequea township, upon reaching the schoolhouse this morning found one of the shutters broken open and also his desk. Upon examination it was found that a Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, a towel and a piece of soap were the only articles taken. Several articles of value were left. It was evidently a tramp that did the work. One of these customers was seen sitting near the door about sundown of last evening. The scamp burped a lot of paper and all the matches he could find, and left a supply of smoking tobacco and dirt upon the floor.

A Warning.

Information has lately been received that some person or persons have imposed on the benevolent people of Marietta, Elizabethtown and places in Lancaster county by representing themselves agents of the Women's Christian Association of Harrisburg. No funds in that manner have ever been received by us, neither have we any authorized agents anywhere, excepting the managers of the association, who solicit in the churches of Harrisburg alone. By order of the President, Mrs. Dr. Fleming.

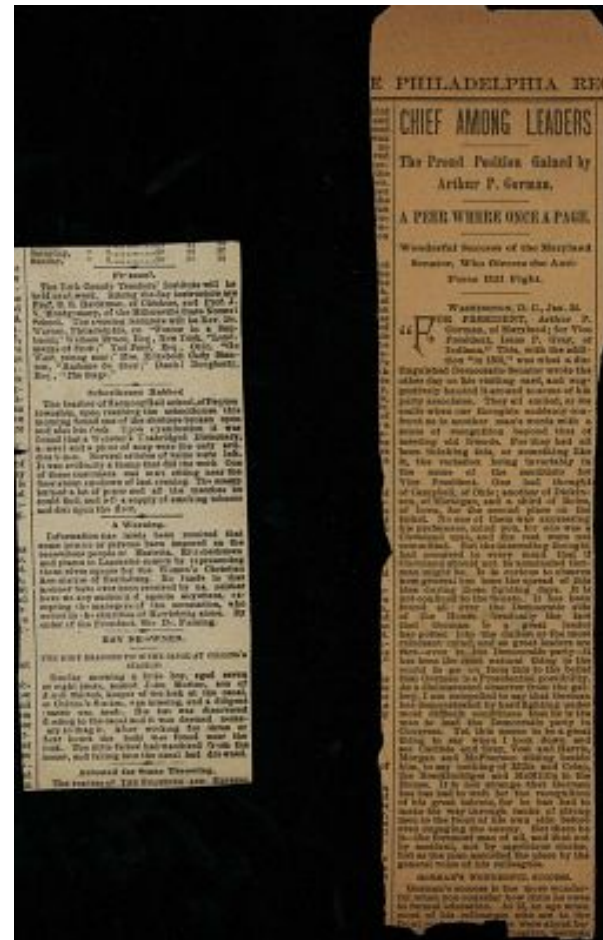

BOY DROWNED.

THE BODY DRAGGED FROM THE CANAL AT COLLIN'S STATION.

Sunday morning a little boy, aged seven or eight years, named John Morton, son of Jacob Morton, keeper of the lock at the canal, at Collin's Station, was missing, and a diligent search was made. His hat was discovered floating in the canal and it was deemed necessary to drag it. After working for three or four hours the body was found near the lock. The little fellow had wandered from the house, and falling into the canal had drowned.

Arrested for Stone Throwing.

The readers of THE EXAMINER AND EXPRESS

[[newspaper clipping]]

E PHILADELPHIA REC

CHIEF AMONG LEADERS

The Proud Position Gained by Arthur P. Gorman.

A PEER WHERE ONCE A PAGE.

Wonderful Success of the Maryland Senator, Who Directs the Anti-Force Bill Fight.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 24.

"FOR PRESIDENT, Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland; for Vice President, Isaac P. Gray, of Indiana." This, with the addition "in 1892," was what a distinguished Democratic Senator wrote the other day on his visiting card, and suggestively handed it around to some of his party associates. They all smiled, as we smile when our thoughts suddenly confront us in another man's words with a sense of recognition beyond that of meeting old friends. For they had all been thinking this, or something like it, the variation being invariably in the name of the candidate for Vice President. One had thought of Campbell of Ohio; another of Dickinson, of Michigan, and a third of Boies, of Iowa, for the second place on the ticket. No one of them was expressing his preference, mind you, for one was a Cleveland man, and the rest were not committed. But the interesting thought had occurred to every mind that if Cleveland should not be nominated Gorman might be. It is curious to observe how general has been the spread of this idea during these fighting days. It is not confined to the Senate. It has been found all over the Democratic side of the House. Gradually the fact that Gorman is a great leader has gotten into the dullest or the most reluctant mind, and as great leaders are rare-even in the Democratic party-it has been the most natural thing in the world to go on from this to the belief the Gorman is a Presidential possibility. As a disinterested observer from the gallery, I am compelled to say that Gorman has demonstrated by hard fighting under most difficult conditions that he is the man to lead the Democratic party in Congress. Yet this seems to be a great thing to say when I look down and see Carlisle and Gray, Vest and Harris, Morgan and McPherson sitting beside him, to say nothing of Mills and Crisp, the Breckinridges and McMillin in the House. It is not strange that Gorman has had to wait for the recognition of his great talents, for he has had to make his way through ranks of strong men to the front of his own side before even engaging the enemy. But there he is-the foremost man of all, and that not by accident, not by capricious choice, but as the man accorded the place by the general voice of his colleagues.

GORMAN'S WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

Gorman's success is the more wonderful when you consider how little he owes to formal education. At 13, an age when most of his colleagues who are in the front r [[page ripped]] were about be- [[page ripped]] ducation, Gorman

John and Charles Wise Ballooning Collection - Scrapbook 1
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Mar-29-2024 12:36:47

Smithsonian Institution

Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian