L.A Store Entry In Women's Air Race

B.H. Dyas Co. has an interesting window display in connection with the national air races at Cleveland, in which a Swallow monoplane, powered with a Kinner motto and emblazoned with the name and standard of the Dyas store, will be piloted by Mary Charles of Los Angeles.
The display includes one of the new three-blade propellers, a new type landing wheel and parts of a Kinner motor.

Miss Charles will start in the air derby at Municipal airport Sunday, which is a fight from Los Angeles to Cleveland and throughout the races will advertise Los Angeles and the Dyas store with her plane. She learned to fly at Clover field, Santa Monica, and the plane she will use in the air derby was assembled locally. The Dyas window display attracted much attention from shoppers today and the store officials announced they would receive daily news of the races for the information of the public.
