

Smithsonian Institution

Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives

Blanche Stuart Scott Collection - Scripts and Manuscripts

Extracted on Mar-28-2024 07:07:32

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

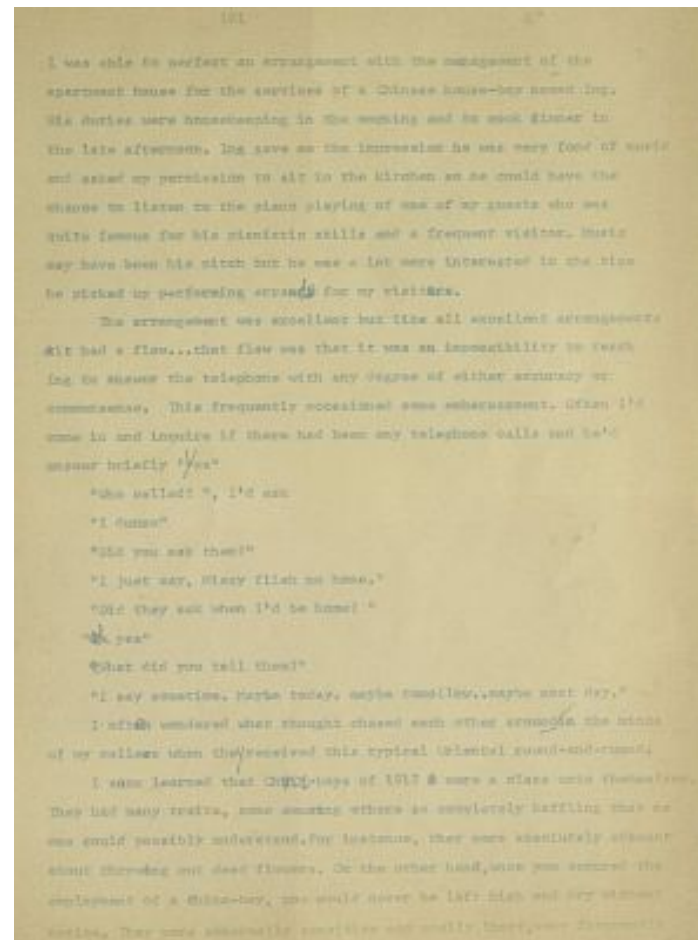

I was able to perfect an arrangement with the management of the apartment house for the services of a Chinese house-boy named Ing. His duties were housekeeping in the morning and to cook dinner in the late afternoon. Ing gave me the impression he was very fond of music and asked my permission to sit in the kitchen so he would have the chance to listen to the piano playing of one of my guests who was quite famous for his pianistic skills and a frequent visitor. Music may have been his pitch but he was a lot more interested in the tips he picked up performing errands for my visitors.

The arrangement was excellent but like all excellent arrangements it had a flaw ... that flaw was that it was an impossibility to teach Ing to answer the telephone with any degree of either accuracy or commonsense. This frequently occasioned some embarrassment. Often I'd come in and inquire if there had been any telephone calls and he'd answer briefly "Yes"

"Who called?", I'd ask
 "I dunno"
 "Did you ask them?"
 "I just say, Missy fliah no home."
 "Did they ask when I'd be home?"
 "Oh yes"
 "What did you tell them?"
 "I say sometime. Maybe today, maybe tomollow .. maybe next day."

I often wondered what thought chased each other around in the minds of my callers when they received this typical Oriental round-and-round.

I soon learned that China-boys of 1912 were a class unto themselves. They had many traits, some amusing others so completely baffling that no one could possibly understand. For instance, they were absolutely adamant about throwing out dead flowers. On the other hand, once you secured the employment of a China-boy, you would never be left high and dry without notice. They were abnormally sensitive and easily hurt, very frequently

Blanche Stuart Scott Collection - Scripts and Manuscripts
 Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
 Extracted Mar-28-2024 07:07:32

Smithsonian Institution

Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian