Roy Knabenshue's Mother, 85, Dies

[[handwritten note]] Holly, [?][[end handwritten note]]

Mrs. Salome Knabenshue, 85, mother of Roy Knabenshue, pioneer dirigible and "lighter-than-air" pilot, was found dead early today in her hotel room at 6808 Hollywood Blvd., presumably of a heart ailment. Mrs. Knabenshue was found by her granddaughter, Salome Knabenshue.

A resident of Hollywood for some 20 years, Mrs. Knabenshue was the widow of Samuel S. Knabenshue, a newspaperman for 25 years, and one-time consul general at Belfast, Ireland, and Tientsin, China.

Roy Knabenshue is now connected with the Department of the Interior in Washington, D.C. Three other sons, Paul, who is serving with the American Consular Service in Egypt; Guy, a retired Army officer, and Lee of San Gabriel, also survive, as well as 12 grandchildren, including Miss Knabenshue and her brother, Glenn in Hollywood, and five great grandchildren.

The body was removed to the W.M. Strother Mortuary.

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.
