

Pamphlet: Life Begins with Freedom

Extracted on Apr-23-2024 05:28:20

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the National Museum of African American History and Culture as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the National Museum of African American History and Culture website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact National Museum of African American History and Culture or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the National Museum of African American History and Culture. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

[[blank page]]

"I am with you and for you, for the great cause of our liberation!"

Address by Henry Winston, National Administrative Secretary of the Young Communist League, U.S.A., before the Youth Symposium, "Negro Youth and the Fight for Freedom," at the Second National Negro Congress, Philadelphia, October 17, 1937.

Friends:

I am glad to be present at such a great gathering of my people—especially at a time when everyone can see that by the efforts of all the people we can achieve a better future, a better present.

Today, there is a new atmosphere in our country. There is a greater opportunity to work. Our people are more articulate, less willing to endure past indignities. They are asserting themselves more and more in the realms of art, literature, science and public life. They are being met with growing respect. Our protests over the unjust treatment of the Scottsboro boys, of Angelo Herndon and many others have aroused widespread indignation against injustice. There has resulted a strong, new breath of freedom.

"I am with you and for you, for the great cause of our liberation!"

Addres by Weery # Sentes, National Addressistants Accretion of the Trent Committed Congress, Address Indiana. The Trent Stagmanton, Weep Touth and the Trent Stagmanton of the Statishero Super and Stagmanton of the Statishero Stat

5

Pamphlet: Life Begins with Freedom Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers Extracted Apr-23-2024 05:28:20

Smithsonian Institution

National Museum of African American History and Culture

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: https://transcription.si.edu
On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian

On Twitter: @smithsonian