

Harold E. Morehouse Flying Pioneers Biographies Collection - Hubbard, Edward

Extracted on Apr-19-2024 08:20:49

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

165 Edward Hubbard Early Boeing Test Pilot

Edward Hubbard was born in San Francisco, California January 3, 1887. Information is lacking concerning his early life and education.

When Curtiss Flying School graduate T. T. Maroney of Helena, Montana started a school at Harbor Island, Lake Washington, Seattle, Washington about August 1st, 1915, Hubbard was his first student. Maroney had a genuine Curtiss single float [[strikethrough]] hydro [[/strikethrough]] seaplane, powered by an 8-cylinder 60-65 [[strikethrough]] h.p. [[/strikethrough]] h.p. [[/strikethrough]] h.p. curtiss engine. That fall Hubbard learned to fly and by October was practicing landings. By November he was flying [[strikethrough]] well [[/strikethrough]] very capably and took his tests for a [[strikethrough]] hydro [[/strikethrough]] seaplane license on November 26th, obtaining F.A.I. Certificate No. 45 on December 8, 1915.

[[strikethrough]] He continued his flying practice and on [[/strikethrough]] July 4th, 1916, as part of an Independence Day celebration, he flew a pouch of mail from Seattle to Camp Lewis, Tacoma, Washington, carrying Army Lieutenant E. T. Condon [[strikethrough]] as part of an Independence Day Celebration [[/strikethrough]], then returned to Seattle. During the late summer and fall Hubbard did some flying for William E. Boeing who was just starting the Boeing Company. In September Hubbard rescued a couple from drowning on Lake Washington when he picked them up with a [[strikethrough]] hydro [[/strikethrough]] seaplane after their canoe had capsized.

During World War I Hubbard was a civilian flying instructor for the Signal Corps, U.S. Army School at Rockwell Field, North Island, San Diego. [[strikethrough]] California [[/strikethrough]]

After the war, in early 1919, Hubbard returned to Seattle and again started to fly for Boeing. During an Exposition at Vancouver, British Columbia, in early March, the [[strikethrough]] managers [[/strikethrough]] Canadians wished to have a sack of mail flown [[strikethrough]] during the event [[/strikethrough]] and asked Boeing if he would [[strikethrough]] for a plane there to bring the mail back[[/strikethrough]] arrange this. As a result in late February Hubbard piloted a Type "C" twin-float Boeing [[strikethrough hydro [[/strikethrough]] seaplane to Vancouver, carrying Boeing as a passenger. On the way they ran into a storm and Hubbard alighted at Anacortes where they remained for the night. The next day they flew on and alighted at the Royal Vanvouver

EDWARD HUBBARD Early Booing Test Pilot Edward Habbard was born in San Francisco, California, January 3, 1887. Information is lacking concerning his early life and education. When Curtiss Flying School graduate T. T. Haroney of Holena, Mostana, started a school at Warbor Island, Lake Washington, Seattle, Mashington, about August 1, 1915, Hubbard was his first student. Maroney had a genuine Curtiss single float leyers, powered by an 8-cylinder, 60-65 mg. Curtiss engine. That fall Mubbard learned to fly and by October was practicing landings. By Hovember he was flying well and took his tests for a hydre-license on November 26th, obtaining F.A.I. Certificate Sp. 15 on December 3, 1915.

46 pert of an Independent Lary excisionation, he received the Conference of the Conference o mail from Seattle to Comp Lewis, Tacoma, Washington, carrying Army Lieutenant E. T. tondon, CORRESEDENCIA CONTRACTOR TO TOURSE TO Soattle. During the late summer and fall Hubbard did some flying for William E. Soeing who was just starting the Soeing Company. In September Hubbard rescued a couple from drowning on Lake Washington when he picked then up with a models after their cause had causized. During World Mar I Hubbard was a civilian flying instructor for the Signal Corps, U. S. Army School at Rockwell Field, North Island, San Slego, Childwells After the war, in early 1919, Mubbard returned to Scattle and again started to fly for Boning. Buring an Exposition at Vancouver, British Columbia, in Consideran wished to have a sack of mail flows the United States School to and asked feeling If he would allow group to the profits the special and asked feeling If he would allow group to the profits the special and asked feeling If he would allow group to the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups to the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling If he would allow groups the special and asked feeling collibed. As a result in late February Mubbard piloted a Type "C" twin-float Social Mydrd to Eseconver, carrying Societ as a passenger. On the way they ron Into a storm and Mubbard alighted at Anacortes where they remained for the night. The next day they flew on and alighted at the Soyal Vancouver

Harold E. Morehouse Flying Pioneers Biographies Collection - Hubbard, Edward
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Apr-19-2024 08:20:49

Smithsonian Institution

Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum Archives

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: https://transcription.si.edu
On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian

On Twitter: @smithsonian