

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

Olive Rush Diary Fragments, circa 1890-1907

Extracted on Apr-19-2024 01:13:02

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives of American Art as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives of American Art website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives of American Art or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Archives of American Art. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

Some things I found - in fact almost every thing - recalled some happy time of the Past. there were the songs that we sung in school and at "last days." Then the old worn, and doubled papers with the songs on them that we sang at the Beardsley Concert. Oh, those dear old days (bless them) when we were to practise in the hall! From little tots of three or four, the girls and boys older than myself. (then, 14) how we enjoyed that fortnight of genuine pleasure, never to be forgotten I vow, by any-

Then my mind was called to the little pet lambs. Dotty, my darlingest pet that I ever owned, with his snow-white wool - all but the single, and perfectly round black spot on his side, how I loved him! I do not expect in the least to ever find any one or any thing half so fond of me as that lamb was.

How he would play for

Some things I found - in fact almost every thing - recalled some happy time of the Past. there were the songs that we sung in school and at "last days." Then the old worn, and doubled papers with the songs on them that we sang at the Beardsley Concert. Oh, those dear old days (bless them) when we were to practise in the hall! From little tots of three or four, to girls and boys older than myself. (then, 14) how we enjoyed that fortnight of genuine pleasure, never to be forgotten I vow, by any-

Then my mind was called to the little pet lambs. Dotty, my darlingest pet that I ever ~~found~~ owned, with his snow-white wool - all but the single, and perfectly round black spot on his side, how I loved him! I do not expect in the least to ever find any one or any thing half so fond of me as that lamb was.

How he would play for

Olive Rush Diary Fragments, circa 1890-1907
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Apr-19-2024 01:13:02

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian