Smithsonian Institution
Archives of American Art

William Cushing Loring Letters: From Helen Loring to Parents, 1903

Extracted on Mar-29-2024 01:10:50

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

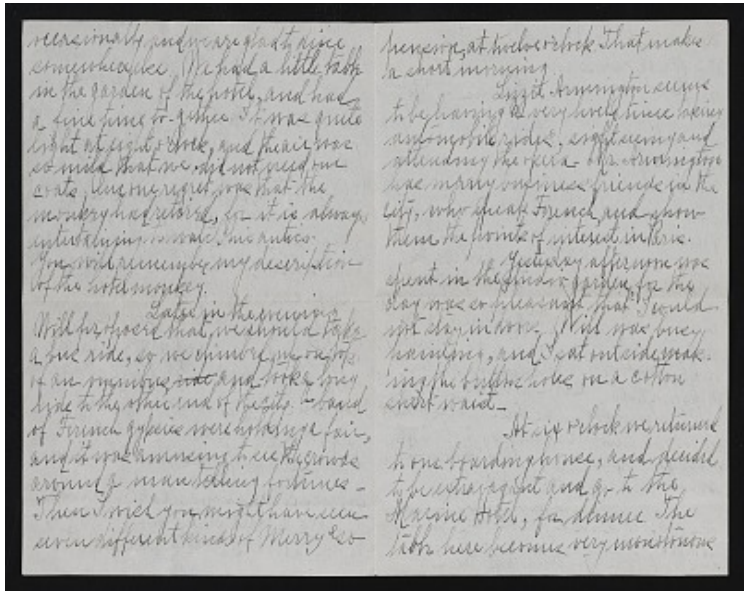

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives of American Art as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives of American Art website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives of American Art or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Archives of American Art. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

occasionally and we are glad to dine somewhere else. We had a little talk in the garden of the hotel and had a fine time together. It was quite light at eight o'clock and the air was so mild that we did not need our coats. Our one regret was that the monkey had retired, for it is always entertaining to watch his antics. You will remember my descriptive of the hotel monkey.

Later in the evening [with for ?] that we should dtake a bus ride, so we climbed [?] on an minibus ride and took a long ride to the other end of the city. On board of French gypsies were holding a fair, and it was amusing to see the crowds around a man talking fortunes. then I wish you might have seen seven different kinds of Merry Go

William Cushing Loring Letters: From Helen Loring to Parents, 1903
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Mar-29-2024 01:10:50

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities.Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!
The Transcription Center: https://transcription.si.edu
On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter
On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian
Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu
On Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian
On Twitter: @smithsonian