

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

Andrew Dasburg Correspondence with Grace Mott Johnson, 1910 December

Extracted on Apr-18-2024 01:55:00

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives of American Art as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives of American Art website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives of American Art or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Archives of American Art. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

and I knew it must be still snowing. It had accumulated to a fair depth and all hands have been rubber-booted & snowshoveling today. I wonder if you are snowbound in Wurtsboro.

My aunt said that I could ask James to kill the cats if I gave him a dollar as I proposed & they are to be drowned tomorrow -- He would not take the dollar, he was so glad to

A photograph of a handwritten letter on a piece of paper with a dark border. The handwriting is in cursive and matches the typed transcription on the left. The letter is divided into two paragraphs. The first paragraph discusses the weather and snow. The second paragraph discusses a conversation with an aunt about offering a dollar to James to kill cats, which he refused.

and I knew it must be still snowing. It had accumulated to a fair depth and all hands have been rubber-booted & snowshovel-ing today. I wonder if you are snowbound in Wurtsboro.

My aunt said that I could ask James to kill the cats if I gave him a dollar as I proposed & they are to be drowned to-morrow.
He would not take the dollar, he was so glad to

Andrew Dasburg Correspondence with Grace Mott Johnson, 1910
December
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Extracted Apr-18-2024 01:55:00

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian