The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives of American Art as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives of American Art website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives of American Art or transcribe@si.edu of at least 35mm, and no full bleed images. Ideally type 11pt font or bigger for accessibility reasons.

b) or, we can do the layout using a simple template if you provide the content and any images.

There is a little leeway with these parameters should you have a specific idea. We're trying not to be too prescriptive. But if you would prefer to leave it to us to deal with the content, then we would be happy to do this too.

If you could supply either the content or your design by Friday 11 November, that would be really helpful, and would give us time in case of any hitches. Please send this material to my colleague Sacha at sacha.waldron@arnolfini.org.uk as we are working together on this information material.

Thanks a lot, and do let us know if you have any questions.

Best wishes,

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.
