

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

Celebrating 175: Henry Ossawa Tanner, Writings & Notes, circa 1900-1930s

Extracted on Jun-28-2022 11:47:02

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives of American Art as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives of American Art website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives of American Art or transcribe@si.edu

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Archives of American Art. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

and as this was the top most thought in my mind, I said where did

[[image: drawing of a "NASM" flag]]

T.S.S. „NIEUW AMSTERDAM“

He was gone too. as was the door way through which I had come was now out of sight ~~now~~ now turning around I saw the door way through which I had come a mere speck in the distance why was it getting so far in the distance ~~I had walked as it seemed to me distance at all looking down at the ground I saw my feet walking moving or getting over the ground at a great rate with no exertion on my part on foot without any sensation of walking on my part. I did not know I had been walking but there I was still growing & I did not how should I stop. I had always stopped walking Know how to stop, but I was when I wanted to but now how to stop was the question where would this walking take me but as things were continually changing I was so occupied with what I was seeing that I soon soon nearly forgot I was walking & that I could not stop. But where did the road lead the perspiration was now trickling down my face I had been~~

And as this was ^{the} top most thought in my ⁵ mind: ~~where did~~
 T.S.S. „NIEUW AMSTERDAM“
 He was gone too. ~~as was the door way through which I had come was now out of sight~~ ~~now~~ now turning around I saw the door way through which I had come a mere speck in the distance why was it getting so far in the distance ~~I had walked as it seemed to me distance at all looking down at the ground I saw my feet walking moving or getting over the ground at a great rate with no exertion on my part on foot without any sensation of walking on my part. I did not know I had been walking but there I was still growing & I did not how should I stop. I had always stopped walking Know how to stop, but I was when I wanted to but now how to stop was the question where would this walking take me but as things were continually changing I was so occupied with what I was seeing that I soon soon nearly forgot I was walking & that I could not stop. But where did the road lead the perspiration was now trickling down my face I had been~~

Celebrating 175: Henry Ossawa Tanner, Writings & Notes, circa 1900-1930s
 Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
 Extracted Jun-28-2022 11:47:02

Smithsonian Institution

Archives of American Art

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian