My dear Mr. Morris:--

I am greatly obliged for your letter of the 17th instant, and beg to say that the three pictures by Mr. Whistler, loaned to the Copley Exhibition arrived at my home this morning. They will be shipped to you, along with the other two, so as to reach you before January 5th.

I fancy your manuscript for the catalogue is well along, but if not too far advanced, may I beg a correction in the title of one of the small pictures, the name of which went to you as "The Great Sea". The title should have included the prefix "Green and gold". Will you, therefore, let it appear in your catalogue as follows:--

"Green and Gold - The Great Sea".

The ticket to be attached to the back of the frame will be corrected to correspond, and to the back of each picture will be attached the proper card.

I greatly appreciate your generous invitation to attend the opening reception of your forthcoming exhibition, and I would be delighted to accept, were it not for the fact that I must be in Detroit at that time. However, later in January, I
The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities.
