

Smithsonian Institution

Archives Center - NMAH

Leo Baekeland Diary Volume 01, 1907-1908

Extracted on Mar-28-2024 05:02:35

The Smithsonian Institution thanks all digital volunteers that transcribed and reviewed this material. Your work enriches Smithsonian collections, making them available to anyone with an interest in using them.

The Smithsonian Institution (the "Smithsonian") provides the content on this website (transcription.si.edu), other Smithsonian websites, and third-party sites on which it maintains a presence ("SI Websites") in support of its mission for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Smithsonian invites visitors to use its online content for personal, educational and other non-commercial purposes. By using this website, you accept and agree to abide by the following terms.

- If sharing the material in personal and educational contexts, please cite the Archives Center - NMAH as source of the content and the project title as provided at the top of the document. Include the accession number or collection name; when possible, link to the Archives Center - NMAH website.
- If you wish to use this material in a for-profit publication, exhibition, or online project, please contact Archives Center - NMAH or transcribe@si.edu

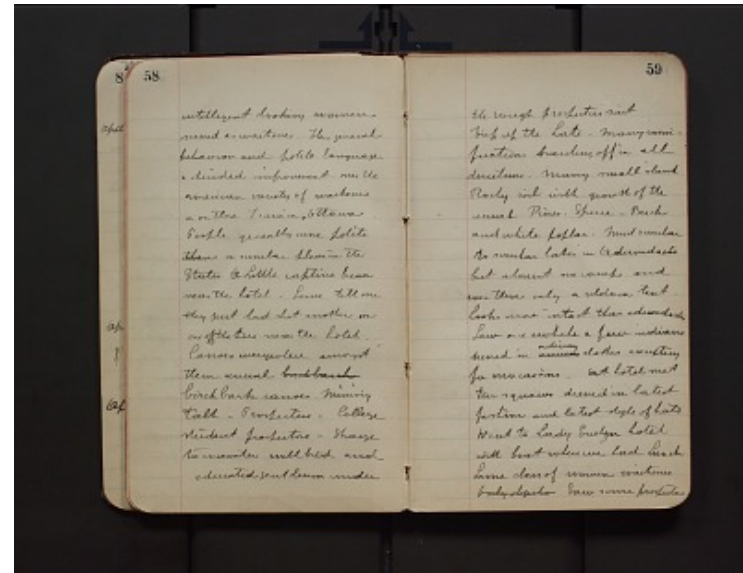

For more information on this project and related material, contact the Archives Center - NMAH. See this project and other collections in the Smithsonian Transcription Center.

58

intelligent looking women served as waitresses. Their general behavior and polite language a decided improvement over the American variety of waitresses or on those I saw in Ottawa. People generally more polite than in number places in the States. A Little captive bear near the hotel. Some tell me they just had shot another on one off the trees near the hotel. Canoes everywhere amongst them several ~~birchbark~~ birch bark canoes. Mining talk. Prospectors. College student prospectors - strange to encounter well bred and educated gentleman under the rough prospectors suit. Trip up the Lake. Many river junctions branching off in all directions. Many small island Rocky soil with growth of the usual Pines, Spruce. Birch and white poplar. Much similar to similar lakes in Adirondacks but almost no camps and even then only a seldom tent. Looks more intact than Adirondacks. Saw once awhile a few Indians dressed in ~~america~~ ordinary clothes excepting for moccasins. At hotel met two squaws dressed in latest fashion and latest style of hats. Went to Lady Evelyn hotel with boat where we had lunch. Same class of women waitresses
[[end page]]
[[start page]]

59

[[end page]]

Leo Baekeland Diary Volume 01, 1907-1908
Transcribed and Reviewed by Digital Volunteers
Approved by Smithsonian Staff
Extracted Mar-28-2024 05:02:35

Smithsonian Institution

Archives Center - NMAH

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.

Join us!

The Transcription Center: <https://transcription.si.edu>

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/SmithsonianTranscriptionCenter>

On Twitter: @TranscribeSI

Connect with the Smithsonian

Smithsonian Institution: www.si.edu

On Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/Smithsonian>

On Twitter: @smithsonian