NCNW Begins City-Wide Poject For Citizenship Education [[written after title, S.F. INDEPENDENT Aug 30, 1956]]
By JEAN WELCHER
Because the struggle for equal rights and full citizenship are meaningless unless all persons assume the full responsibilities of such citizenship, the National Council of Negro Women has embarked on a city-wide educational project to work towards this ideal.
