My dear Mr. Hunter,-

How awfully sorry I am not to have even had a glimpse of you yesterday. I enquired about your health, and my cousin Rene told me that fortunately you were looking very much better than when you came in a fortnight ago.

Will you be kind enough to excuse me, but we were both so very busy with important customers that I thought you would understand our position.

Let us have lunch next week, if that is agreeable to you. How about Monday or Tuesday?- Let me have your answer very soon, and kindly present my respects to Mrs. Hunter.

Yours very sincerely,
