P.S.
Pardon the omission of reference to Savage Bill's accident with a champagne glass - Such trifling things can do him no harm. Pin all ribbons on him - He is matchless - and a bird that can't be winged.

More strength and wings to Ed. Walker if he now needs them - He did things for many in a fine modest way. He will be remembered and given a front seat with cushions and ice above.

I hope dear old H.B.L. will bring home every golf cup in Georgia - He too, will be remembered above and below for untold acts of generous heart and mind - think just once of the joy that for so many years he has given the little ones, Sunday noons, at the Childrens Hospital - and all this without honks.

Charlie Warren too has run the C. of C. over bad roads without honks - He is a pilot with brains! I'll never forget his first dinner - talk at one of our Yondotega celebrations - an epic, with blossoms - fine thoughts beautified on all sides - Not a few such, clustering around Yondotega rafters, echo in the silence here - As you doubtless know, my present treatment admits little talking on my part, so you will forgive me in putting one over on the Drs. by writing a volume to you - you are strong and can when you feel like it, be forgiving - try once more for my sake -- C

The mission of the Smithsonian is the increase and diffusion of knowledge - shaping the future by preserving our heritage, discovering new knowledge, and sharing our resources with the world. Founded in 1846, the Smithsonian is the world's largest museum and research complex, consisting of 19 museums and galleries, the National Zoological Park, and nine research facilities. Become an active part of our mission through the Transcription Center. Together, we are discovering secrets hidden deep inside our collections that illuminate our history and our world.
